18.1.1 FTTB/N speed disclaimer

NBN Co does not represent or warrant that the information contained in the results to be accurate, complete, fit for purpose or error-free, and any person using or relying upon such information does so on the basis that NBN Co accepts no responsibility or liability for any errors, faults, defects or omissions in the information supplied.

Results do not contain measurements of the Line Rate or Information Rate at the NBN Co Network Boundaries, nor does it reflect the speeds which may actually be experienced by a Customer / End Users.

The attainable bitrate, attainable net data rate, and attainable expected data throughput referenced in these results are theoretical maximum upstream or downstream layer 1 characteristics, that may be attained using VDSL2 technology, based on a set of measured line characteristics and unmeasured operating assumptions including the copper line attenuation and signal-to-noise ratio over all the signal frequencies, at the point in time the same actual characteristics are measured at the Node or UNI. An NBN Co Ordered Product may not be capable of achieving the theoretical maximum attainable characteristics.

The actual bitrate, actual net data rate, and actual expected data throughput referenced in a test result may not reflect the actual layer 1 characteristics that will be achieved at the NBN Co Node or UNI at any particular time during a 24 hour period.

Any results must not be used as a basis for any representation to a third party as indicating the layer 1 sync rate, layer 2 Line Rate or Information Rate or any other upstream or downstream data transfer rate [or capacity] that might actually be experienced at the UNI used to serve a Premises.
